SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

1. The air base at Bug on Rügen was completely destroyed in 1945, including the approach road from the north. This road, however, was reconstructed between February and the beginning of May 1950. It is partially paved with stones which are cemented together. The section of the road near the field, however, has been completely concreted in the same fashion as the Autobahn. The road is a highway of the first class.
2. The area is at present guarded by Volkspolizei who are quartered in several wooden barracks. The walls of two large caserne-like buildings have been completed to above the second floor.*
